The mate of the schooner was crushed to death between the schooner s main-chains and the steamer s bows, and his body was carried overboard. The master and the rest of the crew jumped into the boat that was towing at the stern; and the schooner went down by the head almost at the same moment the painter was cutAfter rowing for some time, they came up with the Pinion, and were taken on board. The pilot in the Plulon stated that he saw the schooner, heard the shouts of her crew, and called to the engineer to stop the steamer, and the men at the wheel to put her helm over; but none of the French ship s crew understanding English, his commands were not obeyed. 27.
