RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 82 pages. LC Number: KF27 . I5282 2009a OCLC Number: (OCoLC)429904253 Subject: Marine resources conservation -- Law and legislation -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 management plans in Oregon and Florida to partnering with NOAA to assess pri-ority sites for restoration throughout the country. We have also used regional plan-ning information to provide guidance on energy siting decisions. We have shared these data and approaches through workshops, scientific publications, reports, and websites. Over the last several years, we have we have worked with partners to ex-pand our conservation decision-support tools to directly address fishery, coastal haz-ard, and energy objectives jointly with conservation objectives. Examples of these approaches and current products are available at www.marineebm.org. The key to these mapping tools is identifying a smart mix of fishing, resource extraction, and nature protection. Developing Multi-Objective Marine Management Approaches: Adapting to Protect Human and Natural Communities One cannot promote fisheries over all other alternatives, just as one cannot just promote only conservation. The world is not that simple. Instead resource managers must move from single objective plans and management ( e. g. , just conservation or just fish production ) towards approaches that look at the trade-offs among multiple objectives and services. The aim is to identify solutions that minimize conflicts and maximize benefits among these multiple objectives and services. The Conservancy and partners have been developing approaches for combining fisheries, hazard miti-gation, energy siting, and conservation objectives together into common frameworks. One of the areas where there are real opportunities for identifying win-win solu-tions for human and natural communities is in building approaches that combine hazard mitigation and biodiversity conservation in coastal zones. The goal here is to restore coastal ecosystems to preserve infrastructure and...
