Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Diary of the Parnell Commission: Revised From the Daily News What were the beginnings of the public inquiry which the Special Commission has brought to an end? When Mr. P. O Connor was in the witness-box he told Mr. Ronan, with an amusing expression of surprise and compassion, that they were about three centuries old. For, whatever else it might be, the inquiry was an incident of the Parnell Movement ; and Mr. Ronan, conscious that he must begin his cross-examination somehow, but feeling a little fluttered, had just asked the historian of the movement to tell him when the movement began. Sir Henry James, in an address which even his opponents frankly admire for its ability and ingenuity, and a courtesy and considerateness that render it all the more formidable - Sir Henry James traces the origin of the inquiry to a speech of Mr. Parnell s, made during the debate on the Address, February, 1887, and warning the Government against the dangers of Coercion. But if a date must be chosen, why not...
